Key Macro is designed for automatic, secure, and convenient keyboard input. It uses the Windows registry to store and update macros for commonly used keys such as Control, Alt, Windows, Tab, and others, together with system wide access. The program works in a centralized, centralized way, with no additional configuration required. The interface of the program provides the possibility of adding new macros through the Add button. Each time you run the macro builder, the software examines all the currently active keys in the Windows registry, and searches for a keyboard shortcut of the previously defined macro. The Macros Builder automatically stores the generated keyboard shortcut and attaches it to the activated key. The same button can also be used to add a new Macro. Maintaining the user-friendly interface, the program gives the user the option to generate a default shortcut for a specific key or for all the keys on the system. The program remembers its last settings and recalls them when the user closes the program. KEYMACRO main features: Keyboard macros allow you to set up a predetermined sequence of keyboard shortcuts to perform specific actions. For example, you can create macros to open the context menu, run the application, or perform any other operations. Unlike other programs that require the user to generate a keyboard shortcut manually, Key Macro simplifies the process by finding a pre-defined shortcut for your purpose and automatically registering it for you. With Key Macro, you can create keyboard shortcuts to perform the most frequently used operations, such as create a new folder, insert the last saved document, run a macro, launch a program, and so on. In addition to the standard keyboard shortcut of the selected menu, the program offers the option to define the shortcut in any of the forms, like Title, Icon, Filename, Clipboard, Line or Command. You can also use Shortcut Studio to create custom keyboard shortcuts. The Keys List can be downloaded from the Internet for free and contains more than 1000 predefined shortcuts. As a unique feature of the program, it allows you to make your favorite browser the default browser for opening a new document. System-wide keyboard shortcuts allow you to easily run any program, or any file, from anywhere. The program has a special feature for the disabled user. It allows you to add a keyboard shortcut to open the Accessibility Options, by using the special key combo assigned by the program. Key Macro also supports the use of hot keys.
