----- tDisableAutorun is a small software application whose purpose is to help you enable or disable the AutoRun feature using a set of straightforward actions. In addition, you are given the freedom to turn off the automatic running mode for all drives, certain drive letters, or specific drive types. It can be deployed on all Windows versions out there. The AutoRun mode is responsible for automatically mounting drives when they are connected to your PC. On the downside, it also facilitates the transfer of malware, spyware, or other types of viruses that may infiltrate into your computer via the connected drives so disabling the AutoRun function is a good idea. Comes in a portable package You can take advantage of the tool's portability status and drop it on pen drives or other similar devices so you can carry it with you all the time. You do not have to go through an installation process in order to gain access to the GUI because a double-click on the executable file is sufficient for gaining access to its GUI. Clean and simple layout tDisableAutorun sports a clutter-free and intuitive design that allows you to set up the dedicated parameters with ease. You cannot read more about the configuration process in a help manual, but you can quickly get an idea about how to make the most out of the program's features because they look easy to work with. Disable the AutoRun mode on the fly The application offers you the possibility to deactivate the AutoRun feature for all drives or disable this particular option for certain drive types (e.g. removable, fixed, network, CD/DVD) and drive letters. Tests have pointed out that tDisableAutorun carries out a task quickly and without errors.
