Contents Appearance Marauder is a Dragonborn variant based off of a white Dragonborn, wearing a black shirt, brown pants, a brown hat, and a black cloak with the red Mark of the Assassin. The Mark of the Assassin is an alternative to the Mark of the Assassin. but Marauder has a spiked red mask instead of the horns on the Mark of the Assassin. Story Marauder is a diefinding variant, and is in the game to test the player's luck while trying to kill Ashe's parents, Lady Athene and Duke Vergil. If the player succeeds, the diefinder may be able to learn the Curse of the Dragonborn and receive a relic for their efforts. Notes While Marauder is a hired mercenary, he begins the quest by talking to a commanding officer, who asks if Marauder is willing to "get dirty." He replies that he is. Marauder is based off of Falcio Fino, a character from the novel Assassin's Creed: Dragon's Dogma. When hired to kill Ashe's parents, it is possible that the player will encounter the diefinder before reaching the Palais. If the player doesn't kill Lady Athene and Duke Vergil during the quest, it is possible to hire Marauder to kill Lady Athene and Duke Vergil later in the game. The diefinder will be in a different location from where he tried to kill the player's parents in the palace.Q: Span width changes how Jira uses it? I'm reading an article about how to align Jira reports. In the article, the author demonstrated a custom report that was obtained by the following modification: Notice the st-summary, which is supposed to be set based on the span width. At first, I followed the author's example, and it did not work for me. However, when I inspected the element in Chromium's developer tools, I found
