In order to improve security, I have installed a client certificate on my Win10 machine and added this to a Windows Firewall rule (Source : My question is why can I not find the client certificate installed when I use Docker Toolbox on Windows 10? Here is a screenshot: Here are some details about the Docker Toolbox: OS: Windows 10 Enterprise Version 1903 (Build 18362.590) Windows Subsystem for Linux Version 5.0 Version : 1.19.3 From here : 4. Add the certificate to your local store and assign it to docker.exe 7. Add the certificate to the Docker Toolbox settings page (Toolbox app → Settings → Certificates). Configure the server if necessary.

NOTE: The Docker Toolbox does not have access to the Windows Certificate Store and instead uses the LSASS process to store certificates within the BASH user account. Windows does not store certificates in this manner. For Docker to work, certificates must be imported into the Windows certificate store as a Trusted Root Certificate Authority. Here is my Docker Toolbox settings: A: I've used Docker Toolbox on Windows on a few occasions. The certificates were installed in the Local Machine certificate store (not system certificates). You should see a key with name of your certificate in those store. If you open a command prompt as administrator certmgr.msc you will see this store in the left navigation If you drag it to your desktop in Windows File Explorer, you should see your certificate (key, Certificate
